LOCAL ITEMS OF INTEREST

Governor McDonald was here last night on the way from Santa Fe to El Paso.

M. Wagoner, of Yuma, Mont., is here on his way to El Paso, Tex., for a few days.

Choir of the local Avenue Baptist church will sing at vesper services at the Presbyterian church.

Don K. Taylor, student at Washington college, Tappan, Kan., is a visitor for the holidays with friends here.

William R. McWhorter, for several years connected with the local office of the American Life Insurance Co. of Phoenix, Ariz., to take charge of the office here.

Prof. L. M. Stone, principal of the Lincoln N. M. school, who with his family has been visiting in Albuquerque during the holidays, returned to his home last night.

J. E. Franklin, engineer, on the Santa Fe coast line, between this city and Window, has returned from Window, where he went on business and in his friends.

Mrs. Paul G. Paulson, of Fresno, Calif., arrived yesterday morning on the Santa Fe. She is here to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. N. E. Wills.

J. H. Eicher, a timekeeper at the Santa Fe railway shop, has been transferred to the mechanical department of the Santa Fe road at Richmond, Calif., and left last night for that city.

Lon Williams, master, pleaded guilty to distorting the nose of Thomas E. Fugate, contra 1st Fast Coal avenue, when he faced Judge Judge yesterday morning. He was fined $10. He paid. Williams, according to the police, stood at the end of the Coal avenue sidewalk and three stones at Fugate's house. It was said that Williams' hostility toward Fugate originated in a doubtful deal.

J. G. McNary arrived yesterday morning from El Paso to join Mrs. McNary and family, who have been here several days. Mr. McNary is soon to succeed Joshua S. Reynolds as president of the First National bank of El Paso.

N. M. Miller, traffic policeman at Second street and Central avenue, and Mrs. E. G. Mayo were married yesterday at Herrington, according to a report received here. It was said that they are spending their honeymoon in Santa Fe.

M. M. Forwood has resigned his position as branch manager of the Western Coffee company to accept a similar position with another concern. He is at present in Fort Smith, Ark., on business, but will return about the middle of this week.

JONES ORCHESTRA IS OPEN TO ENGAGEMENTS

The Jones, Albuquerque's imitatable music makers, are no longer connected with the Rooster orchestra, and are open to engagements of any nature at any time, including Saturday nights. Through several years of playing for local and out-of-town dances, orchestras and piano and violin ensembles, the Jones have established enviable reputations and there is no doubt but that there will be a big demand for their services. They are ready to supply a crackler-like four-piece orchestra or a two-piece piano and drums combination. Phone 1146-W.

MADE FREQUENT INSPECTIONS OF DAIRIES, REPORT

Chemist Says He Gave More Attention to This Because of Unusual Prevalence of Disease During Year.

Because of the unusual prevalence of contagious disease here during the last year, dairy inspections were made more frequently than ordinarily and more time was devoted to analytical work than in previous years, according to the annual report of Prof. John D. Clark, city chemist, to the board of health.

Professor Clark made ninety inspections, forty chemical and eleven bacteriological analyses in 1915, the report shows. Cause was found for the arrest of only one milk dealer of the seventeen who sell milk in Albuquerque. He was fined, according to Professor Clark's report.

Many improvements made.

The report shows also that nearly all of the dairies supplying the local beverage to Albuquerque have made improvements during the year. The Becker dairy put on an automatic delivery, the Berzok dairy made improvements to the milk house, Clark & Adams put in a new steam boiler, Gustafson put in new bottling machinery, the Matthews dairy had all cows tuberculin tested at its own expense. Many has a new modern dairy; F. Schindler built a new milking barn; Smith put on a new milk pump, and Stevens made extensive improvements in the milk house.

CAST OF WM. FOX'S 'THE GALLEY SLAVE' A NOTABLE ONE

A cast of surpassing eminence is seen in the latest William Fox production, "The Galley Slave," in support of Theda Bara. Headed by the universal favorite, Stuart Holmes, the brilliant young American leading man, the players assembled are the best known in the country. Dainty Claire Whitney has an important role. Henry Leone is seen in a part of striking power, and other players of equal ability are on the long cast of characters. Last, but not least (except in point of size), is Little Jane Lee, the gifted child actress whose four-year-old talents have brought audience the nation-wide to her feet.

To be seen at the Pastime theater today and Monday.

A WEE NIP NEW YEAR'S EVE AND THEN--DARKNESS

Lady "Jag" Collapses in Taxicab and Driver Takes Her to Police Headquarters; Released by Judge.

"Please don't ask me my name." A middle-aged woman, whose speech and mannerly bespeak of respectability as much as did her strange request, asked this of Judge Craig, of the police court, yesterday. The court did not ask. On the records she is Mary Doe. Even the police do not know who she is.

Judge Craig asked Chief McMillin whether he knew her. He did not—that is before New Year's eve. The fact that Miss Doe, which is her name, is not known to the chief, officially, and her obvious respectability led Judge Craig to tell her to go. She left in such a hurry that she didn't miss her purse from her handbag, and Judge Craig had to hurry after her to give it to her.

THE WOMAN PAYS AT LYRIC THEATER TODAY ONLY

In "The Woman Pays," the latest Rolfe Photo Plays Inc. production, starring the Metro program, Valli Valli, the talented and forceful English actress is seen in the stellar role. The picture, which is in five intense and gripping acts, will be shown here at the Lyric theater today only.

Miss Valli, first appeared under the Rolfe-Metro banner in "The High Road," a successful feature picture that is meeting with tremendous success both here and abroad.

A strong cast appears in support of Miss Valli in "The Woman Pays," which includes Marie Empress, Edward Brennan, John E. Bowers, Paul Lawrence, Mrs. Julia Hurley and Mae De Metz. The story of "The Woman Pays" is one of intrigue, love and high finance, and affords Miss Valli unlimited opportunity to display her remarkable versatility.

One of the big scenes in the picture shows a wonderfully realistic storm where a large truck is driven through the bay window of a home where a ball is in progress. Miss Valli, in the role of Beth Coventry, is struck by the tree and receives a wound that mars her beauty for life, a vital incident in the development of the dramatic story.

CUMMINS BOOM FOR PRESIDENT LANDS IN TOWN

Cedar Falls Business Man Brings It With Him on Train From South; Declares Iowa Senator Ideal Candidate.

When C. B. Santee, a prominent business man of Cedar Falls, Iowa, arrived in Albuquerque last night and registered at the Alvarado, it created no particular sensation; but that was because Mr. Santee had not sent out advance notices of his intention to come to Albuquerque and his reasons for paying a visit to this city.

After the Iowa had sprung up and had dinner and had walked out on the streets for a while, it suddenly dawned on folks in general that he had brought something to town with him. What Mr. Santee brought was a perfectly good boom for Albert Bard Cummins, United States senator from Iowa, for president to succeed Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Santee took it out and showed it around to a number of people last night and today he will have it on full display for the benefit of the public.

Is Touring State.

How a man on so important a mission has been able to conceal his movements with such success is rather difficult to explain, but it developed in conversation with Mr. Santee last night that he has already been in six New Mexico counties in the interest of the Iowa senatorial candidate and has met with decided encouragement.

Arriving some time ago in Tucuman, he went there to Santa Rosa, Carrizosa, Alamosa, Las Cruces and Socorro, in each of which towns he conferred with republican leaders, who, he declares, listened with the greatest attention and interest to the arguments advanced as to why Cummins should be the next standard bearer of the republican party.

Mr. Santee will spend today consulting with local leaders of his party, and this afternoon or tonight will move on to Santa Fe, going from there to Las Vegas. With the latter city, our of New Mexico probably will end.

Progress of Boom.

Mr. Santee declared last night that at the present time Senator Cummins cannot be said to be an active candidate for the presidency, and that only in the event that it can be shown that there is a general demand for his candidacy from both the east and the west will he allow his name to go forward for nomination.

The present trip, he said, is more for the purpose of sounding out republican sentiment and creating a demand for the Iowa senator than anything else. Senator Cummins, said Mr. Santee, is an ideal candidate from a republican standpoint. He has always been progressive in his views, but refused to leave the party in the bull moose movement of 1912. The big bull moose, he declared, would undoubtedly support Cummins and would carry all the force of his tremendous personal following into the campaign back of him, while at the same time Cummins would be acceptable to the conservative element of the party.

LIVESTOCK MEN ARE INTERESTED IN NEW CONCERN

Perfecting of Stockmen's Guaranty Loan Company Is Certain to Supply Final Link in Prosperity Chain.

Perfecting of a financial organization likely to have an important influence upon the future growth of Albuquerque, and reasonably certain to develop into an active promoter of prosperity among the livestock interests of the state, is indicated by an advertising announcement in the morning's Journal by the Stockmen's Guaranty Loan company, of which W. C. Oestreich is president and the active organizing head.

The announcement contains not only a comprehensive statement of the company's purposes and its field of operations, but carries also a report by A. G. Whittier, state traveling auditor, which gives the company a clean-cut certificate of high character and sound financial responsibility.

The announcement and the report of the traveling auditor are worthy of careful reading by business men throughout New Mexico, since this company, if it carries out its present plans, is likely to play an important part in financing the livestock industry of this state during the next few years, and is reasonably certain to keep in New Mexico a huge volume of money that now goes out of the state as the production of cattle loans.

The fact that the organizers are Albuquerque men and that the company recently has established its permanent home office here, following the purchase of the business block at 115 South Second street, have importance to this city, since the company's operations will tend to center the interests of the livestock industry of New Mexico in the city from which its work is carried on.

"We feel that our organization has now passed wholly out of the incubating stage," said Mr. Oestreich last night, "and that we will be able to proceed with the carrying out of the activities provided for in our charter and for which the company was organized. Stated briefly, we expect to be able to supply long time cattle loans to New Mexico cattle growers upon conditions that will keep a large volume of money at home, as well as to bring in a large amount of money from eastern and other financial centers. Our livestock industry has been almost wholly financed by eastern cities in the past. There is no reason why this financing should not be done at home, and our company proposes to do it. We hope to build up here one of the great stock loan companies of the nation, and with this building up we are confident that we will do it."

Some time ago J. H. Nations, president of the Panhandle and Southwestern Cattleman's association, pointed out in an interview in an El Paso newspaper the need for such an institution as we have established. Out of his wide experience with the stock industry in the southwest Mr. Nations declared that a cattle loan bank with a capital stock of $500,000 was the greatest need of his home city of El Paso, because the banks there were not prepared and would not undertake to finance cattle operations on the basis and the large scale which the well rounded and proportioned development of the industry demands. The whole southwest, he pointed out, goes east for its cattle loans; not to western or central cattle centers, but to eastern money centers. He declared $500,000 institution the imperative need of the livestock industry of the southwest. While this company is in no sense a bank, it carries out in its plan all the requirements of the institution Mr. Nations pictured. I believe we have completed the founding here of an institution which will play a very important part in the development of New Mexico, since prosperity for our livestock industry is bound to contribute materially to the general prosperity of the state."
